Overview

The DeKalb County Youth Commission is a leadership program, sponsored in March 2008 by the DeKalb County Board of Commissioners was designed to involve youth, from varied socioeconomic backgrounds and multicultural neighborhoods, with opportunities to have a voice in their communities.

By learning the roles of county government, and participating in civic and community activities, and while representing the views of the youth of DeKalb County, the Youth Commissioners will sustain their efforts to becoming effective leaders of the future.

General

This vision seeks the involvement of DeKalb County youth in the planning, development and implementation of community activities and services.

We believe that early involvement of our youth in the spectrum of governmental mandates and processes will increase their awareness and enable them to become more effective leaders.

With the motto of "Learn, Serve, Lead," the DeKalb County Youth Commission will establish an environment in which the youth of DeKalb County can learn about DeKalb County Government, reinforce that learning through civic activities, and develop a foundation to lead in the future.

Administration

The DeKalb County Youth Commission is administrated by Ms. Karrianna Turner, manager of Office of Youth Services Division of the DeKalb County Human Services Department, along with Mr. Jashawn Williams, project manager , Office of Youth Services and Youth Commission coordinator.

Membership

Students, enrolled in DeKalb County's high schools from the tenth and eleventh grades, are encouraged to apply annually to participate in the DeKalb County Youth Commission program. Selection is based on a completed application that contains an essay, and a referral from a community member, school administrator, teacher, counselor or civic leader. Other considerations may include a student's GPA, community involvement (i.e., volunteerism, clubs, youth groups, etc.), and their presentation during an interview process. Students should have a rich history of recognized leadership potential, as well as extra time to actively participate during school hours and after-school events. Applications are presented in January to all of DeKalb County's private and public high schools, public libraries, community youth organizations and others requesting information. Newly selected applicants will be notified in July of their acceptance into the program and may maintain membership in the Youth Commission until they graduate from high school.

The parents and guardians of Youth Commissioners have the opportunity to participate on the DeKalb County Commission's Parental Advisory Council. This Council will meet twice a year during the Youth Commission term, providing parents/guardians an avenue to stay well informed on matters concerning the Youth Commission agenda and events.
