

BEYOND BEYOND BEYOND NEWS HEADLINES HEADLINES HEADLINES

by Ayda Bashiri

The US Department of State

gives travel warnings with 4 levels. These warnings are based on things like crime, sickness, and natural disasters. As of Summer 2024, the levels are:

New York City, New York, U.S.A.

"That man said we are the most beautiful women in the world," my friend Brittany said. I looked at him, and he joyfully waved.

Cusco, Sacred Valley, Peru

On November 23, 2022, the workers in many departments of Peru were on strike. The roads were blocked, and we walked a lot.

"Bueños Tueños," my boyfriend Dustin said, trying to say Buenos Tardes. I laughed, and so did a man nearby.

Tecpán, Chimaltenango, Guatemala

"I'm Eirene, from El Salvador," she said. "I want to practice English. Can we get coffee?"

"I would love that!" We talked, and I made a friend.

Shahin Shahr, Esfahan, Iran

"Haggle!" Sirous said.

"How much is this charm?" I asked.

"100,000 Rial," said the shopkeeper.

"How about 65,000 Rial," Sirous smiled. I paid and took the charm. I saw the shopkeeper smiling and shaking his head.

No matter what level a country is labeled, one thing is the same: people are kind. You should follow the warnings, but even if countries have problems, the people are still generous and curious. The world is full of kindness, even in hard times.

The U.S. Department of State gives travel warnings with 4 levels. These warnings are based on things like crime, sickness, and natural disasters. As of Summer 2024, the levels are:

- Level 1: Be Aware
Countries like Canada, Australia, Argentina, and Senegal are at this level.
- Level 2: Be More Careful Than Usual
Countries like Peru, India, Italy, and the Philippines are at this level.
- Level 3: Think Before You Go
Countries like Guatemala, Nigeria, Pakistan, and Colombia are at Level 3.
- Level 4: Do Not Go
Countries like Iran, North Korea, Venezuela, and Sudan are at this level.

Level 1: New York City, USA

"That man said we are the most beautiful women in the world," my friend Brittany said. I looked at him, and he joyfully waved.

Level 2: Cusco, Peru

On November 23, 2022, the workers in many departments of Peru were on strike. The roads were blocked, and we walked a lot.

"Bueños Tueños," my boyfriend Dustin said, trying to say Buenos Tardes. I laughed, and so did a man nearby.

Level 3: Tecpán, Guatemala

"I'm Eirene, from El Salvador," she said. "I want to practice English. Can we get coffee?"

"I would love that!" We talked, and I made a friend.

Level 4: Esfahan, Iran

"Haggle!" Sirous said.

"How much is this charm?" I asked.

"100,000 Rial," said the shopkeeper.

"How about 65,000 Rial," Sirous smiled. I paid and took the charm. I saw the shopkeeper smiling and shaking his head.

No matter what level a country is labeled, one thing is the same: people are kind. You should follow the warnings, but even if countries have problems, the people are still generous and curious. The world is full of kindness, even in hard times.